

---

You are about to reach the top and finalize the results of this phase of the project. But before you get there, take the time to look back on the participation phase and everything you have learned together as a group.

Again, the sharing circles can be used as a tool to structure the discussion. Appoint a discussion leader or invite a moderator and prepare the group conversation with already developed guidelines, for example from this article.